

SEPTEMBER NEWS

HIGHLIGHT

- As we enter our seventh month of programming, we are incredibly proud of the progress and growth we continue to see in our children! Each day brings new accomplishments, increased independence, and exciting opportunities for learning across all developmental areas.
- One of the most noticeable areas of growth has been the children's ability to transition into the clinic and settle into their daily routines more smoothly. They are becoming increasingly familiar with what to expect throughout their day and are requiring less support from therapists during transitions and activities. This growing sense of comfort and independence has been wonderful to see!
- Our children are also making meaningful strides in their social and communication skills. They are interacting more frequently with one another, enjoying snack time together, and joining group activities with greater participation and confidence. We are seeing more opportunities for shared play, group learning, and positive interactions between peers.
- The children continue to make great progress in their learning and fine motor skills as well. They are improving their tracing and cutting abilities, identifying letters and numbers, responding to WH-questions, and following instructions with increasing consistency. Their growing ability to participate in structured learning activities is a wonderful reflection of their continued development.
- We are also seeing exciting progress in gross motor skills and group participation. The children are now able to come together as a group, listen to directions, and complete an obstacle course while practicing coordination, movement, and following multi-step instructions. Watching them encourage one another and participate together has been a highlight of the program!
- Another area of progress is toileting. Children who are working on toilet training are developing a better understanding of their bodies and are increasingly recognizing when they need to use the bathroom. These emerging skills are an important step toward greater independence.
- Most importantly, we are hearing positive feedback from parents about the progress they are seeing at home and at school. It is incredibly rewarding to know that the skills being developed in the program are carrying over into the children's everyday environments.
- We are so proud of each child and the progress they have made over these first seven months. Every new skill, successful transition, interaction, and moment of independence is something to celebrate. We look forward to continuing to support their growth and seeing all that they accomplish in the months ahead!

LEARNING AND DEVELOPMENT FOCUS

Things We Focused On This Month ☀

It has been another wonderful month of growth, learning, and new accomplishments in our TILP program! As the children continue to become more comfortable with their routines, we are seeing increased confidence, independence, communication, and participation throughout their days.

🗨 Communication

Our SLP-led groups continue to focus on prepositions, WH- questions, and initiating communication with adults and peers. We are excited to see the children becoming more confident in expressing themselves, responding to questions, and engaging in conversations.

✂ Fine Motor Skills

Our OT-led groups continue to strengthen fine motor including tracing, cutting, and pre-writing skills through fun, hands-on activities.

🚽 Toileting

We continue to support toileting and independence at each child's individual level. The children are showing increased awareness of their bodies and toileting routines, and we are so proud of the progress they continue to make!

🕒 Sensory-Motor Play

Sensory-motor activities continue to support regulation, body awareness, and readiness to learn. The children are becoming more comfortable using these activities to help them get ready for learning and participation.

🕒 Transitions

Transitions are becoming smoother as the children gain a better understanding of their daily routines and what comes next.

👥 Social Play & Peer Relationships

We continue to see exciting growth in social interactions and peer relationships. The children are showing more interest in one another, joining group activities, enjoying snack time together, and learning to communicate and play with their peers.

🎉 Celebrating Progress!

We are incredibly proud of the growth, effort, and determination each child continues to show. Every new skill, successful transition, interaction, and moment of independence is a milestone worth celebrating! We look forward to continuing to build on these skills and celebrating many more accomplishments together. ❤
